on this matter now.

As that inquiry proceeds, the public is learning a good deal about the Buttle Lake project for the first time. Already there seems to be serious conflict in the reported evidence. If opponents of the damning of evidence. If opponents of the damning of Buttle Lake are correct, the commission may have been seriously in error both in its estimate of merchantable timber that would be flooded by the development, and also in the initial leasibility of putting a dam there that would hold water. The opinions of such men as Dr. Victor Dolmage, a noted Cana-dian geologist, and others of that calibre are not given without considerable reflection and thought.

Thought.

While it will be for the inquiring commission to assess the weight of the facts pround con, sufficient conflict has already arisen to make it clear that the Provincial Government, would have been far wiser to have brought on this discussion inside of the brought on this discussion Inside of the Legislature before any step was taken in the Campbell River area which could by any stretch of imagination be field to imply com-mitment to the Buttle Lake scheme. The farther the present inquiry has progressed the more apparent it grows that there is genuine doubt as to the wisdom of the B.C. Power Commission's current proposals at the site.

Meanwhile, although less stressed it hecomes more obvious that any such move as the damming of Buttle Lake would wreck Strathcona Park as a provincial recreation ground decided in feust for the enjoyment of ne art gallery, to wit, that the city shouldn't bear alone the expense of financing amenties that will be available to the Greater Victoria area as a whole. His statement was particularly pertinent because this is mariably what happens, the memorial area being a salutary example.

Time and again the adjacent municipalities refuse to contribute to projects that are of benefit to the community at large, and Victoria City is left to foot the bill, Quite obviously this attitude is unfair, and one that puts municipal residents in the position of riding on the backs of Victorians.

That other offer to the city, the conservatory at Royal Roads; falls into the same category. Removal costs have been estimated at $8,000 and annual maintenance at $16,000; but if precedent is a guide the city, assuming it decides to accept the conservatory, will get no help from its close neighbours in underwriting the venture. Yet likely enough as many citizens from Oak Bay, Esquimall and Saanieh as from Victoria City will derive pleasure from the displays it houses.

None of this is either friendly or neighbourly, and it belies the intimate association that propinquity creates among the people of the Greater Victoria area. Far from standing aloof as they do, municipal bodies about the standing aloof as they do, municipal bodies should be anxious to co-operate in amenities shared in common and bear a legitimate share of their cost,

Traffic Education Necessary

WITH due respect to the opinion of the city police traffic inspector, the present system of marking school zones by restricted speed limits whether school is in or out does not work effectively, is ignored too often by the driving-public and is building up nothing for the future in the form of public education in traffic rules in this community. It is a fixed order, regardless of the conditions on the streets at the time or whether the time be morning, noon or night.

The "Stop when occupied" notices mark out precisely the same stretches of city streets. The instruction makes sense at all times of the day and in all seasons. From care at school crossings it carries something over to every traffic intersection in the driving public's mind, for the same principle applies in a much wider field. One instance driving public's mind, for the same principle applies in a much wider field. One instance of that is noticed among our American visitors. One and all they have been thoroughly grounded in the "Stop when occupied" method, and it is a sound one.

The real point at issue is not merely the protection of children at school crossings, but the gradual and cumulative education of the public in what to do at all street intersections. From that standpoint, the proposed change from the fixed speed limit seems like the most effective one. It should be implemented and given a fair trial.

British Inns

By FRANK KELLEY

A Primes along the years it has been wistfully voiced, mainly by transplanted Britons, no doubt, that Van couver Island and the adjacent Mainland have no lines modeled and served on the lines of such houses of hospitality common to every hamlet of the

Quite possibly a replica of some famous inn, redolent with century-old village gossip lurking in its timbers, end of Vancouver Island and might help stimulate and perpetuate the "Little bit of England" whimsy, not altogether favored by some here-

Better still, if it could be brought about, would be the acquisition by some enterprising individual or group of individuals of some time-storied building (they are for sale at times, I am told), tear it down, load it in some ship's hold and transplant it upon an appropriate site in the Greater Victoria area. The older the material and the age of its associations, the more popular it might be among expatriates, stay at homes and the touring public

* * *-Frankly, the nearest approach to a British inn I ever became familiar with was the old Boomerang, which my Old Country friends seemed satisfied with all of forty and more years ago. It was located off Langley Street next to the Court House and inspired some verse by an old friend, Herrick Mac-Gregor, before he went overseas with the Gordons in 1914 and never came

All this preliminary prattle is prompted by a pretentious publication entitled "The British Inn." It bears the familiar T.C.A. symbol on the coverpage and came to me through the courtesy of Eric Marshall, of the G. Paulin Travel Service. Knowing little the subject, except what I have read about those favorite haunts of Britons featured in stories by Dickens and others, one can be pardoned for regretting some things which do not belong to a new land

In the publication the romance and tradition of a thousand years of Brit-ish innkeeping, with their "signs of hospitality," are touched upon. There is a bit about the Dickens' inns, illus-trating the White Hart, Angel, and Leather Bottle, etc. "Sunday morning at the Star" introduces one to the "Newspaper pubs" and their habitues.
"The Barmaid," of course, gets special mention; and in "Artists and the Inn."
there are bits about Hogarth, Land-

There are also a couple of pages, in color, featuring "The Immortal Inn." with pictures by Morland, Rowlandson, Lami and Crubshanh. The pub infilms is not overlooked. There are bits about "Sport and the Inn," "Inn Crafts and Curiosities." "The Taverners," new name for the "Strolling Players of Today," is revealing. Scene a pub of the Fulham Road on a crisp Spring evening in 1937, The saloon is crowded, an advartised poetry reading. Quoting:

for tankards and a clearing of throat silence ring out words unfamiliar to as they were first uttered in just such a setting. Poetry in pubs had begun."

Much more is related concerning the progress from poetry reading to interpreting plays in the fashion of longimply that Britain is far from decaden in the cultured ways of life, at least.

Reporting From Ottawa UST about the last memento of John name it "Drew House", for people

JUST about the last mements or soin Bank in Life to the total bracken's uninspired leadership of the Tory party is the almost contra-change to Drew's vanity. So they decided to redeese. ory tag of "Progressive Conserva" which he wished onto it.

Indications are that tag won't live out this year.

When the Winnipeg convention of 1942 wooed and won the Liberal Progressive premier of Manitoba as the new chief of the Tory party, part of the payment was accused to the payment with the payme the payment was acquiescence to Bracken's demand that "progressive" be tacked onto the party's name, Bracken hoped — and as everyone now knows, hoped in vain — to sweep the west with this appeal to the old Progressives of the 1920's.

Many Conservatives didn't like the double-barreled name, but the convention accepted it to get Bracken.

Now, with Bracken long since cast to the limbo, the party bosses want to get rid of the awkward appellation, and return to "the historic old Conservative Party," as they like to call it.

But they want to do it gracefully, without the constitution that, by dropping "Progressive" from their name, they are denying that they are pro-

It won't be as simple as was chang-ing the name of Bracken House. That's an old brick home in downtown Ottawa which the party bought early in the Bracken regime when hopes were high that Honest John would lead the Tories out of the wilderness.

The Liberal Party had its Laurier House or at any rate Mackenzie King did, which at that time was just about the same thing. The C.C.F. had its Woodsworth House. What more fitting than that the Progressive Conserva-tives have their Bracken House?

But "Bracken" House didn't-go down well with Bracken's successor. George Drew. It wouldn't have done to re-was built. It was such an improvement that few people stopped to realize that the Bracken House sign had followed John Bracken. Graceful metal letters affixed to the brick pro-claimed that this was "Progressive Conservative National Headquarters."

So far as the double-barreled name when the P.C. National Association meets in its annual convention here next November. Then somebody is almost certain to introduce a resolution to rename the party the "Conservative party". Delegates to a meeting of P.C's from 47 Quebec ridings already have passed a resolution favor ing such action, and may be the ones to start the ball rolling next fall.

If they drop the P out of P.C., the party will be back to the name it used in its reyday, when old Sir John A. Macdonald ruled the roost.

WHAT GOD HATH DONE

HEALED OF DEAFNESS AND CANCER

I truly praise the dear Lord for sending Brother Valdez's Healing Campaign to the city of Tampa, Florida.

Nineteen years I have been deaf in my left ear. When I was a small child I began having head trouble. I went to several doctors for relief, finally a head specialist told me that I had cancer and wasn't anything he could do. Brother Valdez prayed for me and thank the dear Lord I was healed right then. My hearing was instantly restored and the next mornmy hearing is perfect. Thank the dear Lord forever.

Mrs. Mavis Roy 3700 Idlewild Tampa, Florida

WAS BLIND IN BOTH EYES

Dear Brother Valdez:

During your healing meeting held in Hammond, Indiana, Mrs. Carrie Saulesbury came to be prayed for blindness. You prayed for her and she said, "When Brother Valdez laid his hands on me, it seemed as though they were glued fast and then, all at once, they came loose and I have been able to see ever since."

BULLETIN No. 10 CIVIL DEFENCE

SCHOOLS

This letter is to inform you concerning the procedures we plan to follow in the training and education of all school personnel (teachers and pupils) regarding the best protective measures in the unhappy, and we hope unlikely, event that the area in which we live is subjected to enemy bombing-either atomic or conventional type.

Like you we sincerely hope that all of our plans for school Civil Defence activities will prove to have been unnecessary, but like parents we feel that so long as there is any possibility of such danger, every available precaution must be taken. We prefer caution to complacency.

To this end we are putting into effect a simple programme of training and protective drills which utilizes the best available information on the subject and provides the maximum protection under each of several conditions. For example, should the need arise, the young people will be moved to the safest location in the school.

As devastating as the atomic bomb is, there is no justification for a feeling of hopelessness or helplessness in the event of such bombing. Relatively slight obstacles offer considerable protection and in general the type of construction used in our schools is a definite item in our favour.

It is our intention, without causing alarm, so to impress these simple facts and instructions permanently in the minds of both teachers and pupils, that immediate response will become a habit. Only by constant repetition and drill can we ensure universal and complete compliance. When this state is reached we think that children will be just as safe with us as they would be at home. We are sure that with this explanation you will understand any excitement and comments which your child may bring home concerning this subject.

Yours, sincerely,

Principal of your local school.

Promosed location of the pile is secret, but it is expected it will be constructed in southern India, not far from the Tranvancore coast, with its almost limitless supplies of thorium-bearing and uranium-bearing monazite sands.
